Established in 2004, the School of Architecture Foundation exists to support and foster the study and teaching of architecture and its related disciplines at the University of Virginia, and to aid, strengthen, and extend in every proper and useful manner the work, services and objectives of the School of Architecture. Our primary mission is to achieve a high standard of excellence and leadership in service to, and in collaboration with, the UVa School of Architecture community on Grounds and beyond.

A Year in Photos - A-School Alumni Events FY11 32
The UVa School of Architecture offers a rich history of innovative, holistic thinking about the built environment combined with a focus on educating the world’s next great design and planning professionals. What began with Thomas Jefferson’s revolutionary linking of the educational system and the space it occupies, the study of architecture and related disciplines at UVa has evolved into one of the most forward-looking programs in the country. Today we model the engaged public university envisioned by Thomas Jefferson nearly two centuries ago through the development of new collaborative, issue-centered “action” research and design initiatives.

It is my privilege to once again say thank you to the School’s many supporters and acknowledge the impact of your generosity, as evidenced in this FY11 Foundation Annual Report. The School’s legacy and accomplishments are a direct reflection of your investment that allows us to not only support our excellent faculty, staff and students, but strengthen their research, studies and projects.

Many of your gifts this year were made in memory of two great leaders of the School who passed away this year, former Dean Harry Porter and Professor Mario di Valmarana. Through your generosity the work they began will continue to unfold.

New initiatives, such as the Center for Design and Health and the Minor in Global Sustainability, are bolstered by private philanthropy. New scholarships, including the Galsworthy Scholarship for International Students, a first of its kind at the University, and the James Boniface Graduate Fellowship will attract and reward outstanding students. The new PhD in Constructed Environment program will rely upon external partnerships and private gifts to bring in outstanding scholars. Gifts for current programs, as well as much needed unrestricted funds of all sizes, are important as well, for they sustain our faculty and students and enable the Foundation to enhance its work.

My husband Rod and I are proud to have made a multi-year gift commitment to the Foundation in this final year of the current campaign because we believe in the School of Architecture’s mission and we know the value of the work of the Foundation. We are pleased to join the thousands of alumni and friends who have made the School’s campaign a success.

Thank you for your gifts – and for you ongoing participation in the life of the School.

Kim Tanzer, FAIA
Dean and Edward E. Elson Professor of Architecture
MESSAGE FROM TOM BISHOP (BSArch ‘76)
Foundation Board President

The School of Architecture Foundation, now in its seventh year, works to attract and steward private philanthropy, build alumni connections and find new partners for the UVa School of Architecture. Our mission is singular; the impact of our work and your gifts widespread. On behalf of the Foundation Board, I wish to express my gratitude to more than 1200 donors who made gifts and future commitments to the Foundation and School this year. In the pages that follow, we once again celebrate the impact of your generosity and the work of the Foundation in stewarding your gifts.

As we approach the final year of the School’s comprehensive $25 million capital campaign, I also want to acknowledge the thousands of donors who have contributed nearly $24 million in gifts and future commitments in support of the School since 2004 – or over 93% of our goal – to be achieved by December 2011. Our campaign is not over, but we can take pause in celebrating the wonderful accomplishments thus far and take pride in achieving one of the largest comprehensive campaigns of any school of architecture in the country.

On a sad note, this year we pay tribute to two great leaders of the School of Architecture, Harry Porter and Mario di Valmarana. Our thanks to their families, and the many of you who made gifts to the Foundation in their honor. Dean Porter leaves a tremendous legacy as the founding department chair of landscape architecture, Dean of the School and first University Architect. Mario was a founding board member of the Foundation Board. I was a student on the first Vicenza program in 1973. The program and indeed Mario - teacher, mentor, scholar, and friend - had a lasting impact on my life. As a Foundation Board member, Mario was a tireless advocate for the School, making connections with alumni and donors with the same indomitable spirit and class that he introduced many of us to in the Veneto.

To Harry, to Mario, and to all of our donors this year, I say, salute and grazie.

Tom Bishop, BSArch’76
President, School of Architecture Foundation
The University of Virginia’s $3b comprehensive capital campaign was launched in 2004. UVa has achieved nearly $2.5b as of June 2011, including all gifts and future support across Grounds. The School of Architecture’s goal within the campaign is $25m. Thanks to the generosity of over 4,000 donors, we have received nearly $24m in gifts and pledges as of June 2011.

Private gifts and grants to the Foundation and the School, touch nearly every aspect of the School of Architecture. In FY11, the majority of all gifts and pledges were directed to teaching, research and departments (as seen in the adjacent chart) but other areas received significant support as well through restricted and unrestricted giving. Of the total amount given and pledged this fiscal year, over $1.2m was in the form of documented bequests or planned gifts.
2010-11 ENDOWMENT OVERVIEW

The total endowment in support of the School of Architecture is currently valued at $17.2m in invested funds, with another $740,000 designated for endowment purposes as future gifts. This includes endowed funds managed by the School of Architecture Foundation, with the remainder held with Rector and Visitors at the University of Virginia. All funds are invested with the University of Virginia Investment Management Company (UVIMCO). The Foundation began investing endowment funds two years ago and the endowment is steadily growing with new gifts and future commitments. The combined School and Foundation endowments yield annual income in perpetuity to fund the School as the donor designates, unless unrestricted.

IMPACT OF PRIVATE SUPPORT: New Programs and Initiatives

These select programs and initiatives were established or enhanced this year thanks to private gifts and grants:

>> The Veneto Society at the University of Virginia

The Veneto Society at the University of Virginia is a donor recognition society of alumni, friends and family who support the study of the Veneto, including the Vicenza and Venice Programs at the School of Architecture, the Veneto Fellowships and the Mario di Valmarana Professorship in Architecture. Gifts from the Veneto Society will ensure that the School continues to provide students with a rich academic and cultural experience through travel, study, and immersion in the Veneto. The Veneto Programs were founded by Mario di Valmarana over 35 years ago and were the first international study programs at UVa.

>> Interdisciplinary Minor in Global Sustainability

UVa’s Interdisciplinary Minor in Global Sustainability is housed in the School of Architecture but open to students from all the undergraduate schools at the University. The requirements for the Minor include a foundation course, “Global Sustainability,” and a capstone course that embraces community collaboration, as well as a range of courses from various disciplines across the University. The Global Sustainability minor, one of three sustainability minors focused on global engagement offered nationally, is also UVa’s first interdisciplinary minor.

>> The Center for Design and Health

The School’s new Center for Design and Health pursues cross-disciplinary research to aid the design and planning of effective environments for human health and well being. The work of the Center focuses on a variety of health issues, including the design and planning of patient-centered medical facilities, housing, neighborhoods, communities, cities, and regions. The Center is co-directed by Professor Tim Beatley (department of Urban and Environmental Planning) and Emeritus Professor Reuben Rainey (department of Landscape Architecture).

>> ecoREMOD2 / Falmouth

The Falmouth Field School, run by Associate Professor of Architectural History Louis Nelson, and ecoMOD, run by Associate Professor of Architecture John Quale, teamed up for ecoREMOD2/Falmouth, a collaborative project to restore an historic home in Falmouth, Jamaica. The ecoREMOD2 team spent spring break on site in Falmouth meeting the client and studying the site. This summer they returned to design and build a new “wet module,” a bathroom and kitchen to sit behind the home.
>> Arts Administration + Practical Imagination Curriculum

Located within the School of Architecture, but serving the entire University, Arts Administration and its larger umbrella initiative, The Curriculum in Practical Imagination is a multi-faceted course of study that fosters linkages between creative and practical human endeavors; between the built environment and activities which animate it; and between the work of creative artists in all media. Directed by George Sampson, this course of study promotes the importance of design thinking and helps undergraduates translate an excellent liberal arts education into real-world employable skills.

>> China Program

The China Architecture/Culture program, in affiliation with Beijing Institute of Asian Studies based at Peking University in Beijing, has been led by Dr. Yunsheng Huang since 1993. With China’s increasing influence on the built environment, the School has been strengthening its longstanding connections and meeting the high demand from students to learn about Chinese architecture and culture. A grant from the Weedon Foundation enabled the school to expand the program this summer. Students spent four weeks in Beijing and the last two weeks traveling to historical sites around China. Most of the students stayed in China to intern at firms based in Shanghai.

>> Weedon Lecture Series 2010-2011

The Weedon Lecture Series brought five distinguished and internationally recognized research specialists of the built environment in Asia to the School of Architecture. After the lecture series and a thorough candidate search, Dr. Shiqiao Li was appointed the Weedon Professorship in Asian Architecture beginning January 2012. The Weedon Professorship, as well as this lecture series, positions the School to take a leadership role in building an appreciation for Asian environmental design culture among the School community and beyond, while also expanding the School’s established international profile. The Weedon Professorship is made possible by the Ellen Bayard Weedon Foundation and a matching gift by the Saunders Family Challenge.

"Weedon Professorship Selection 2012"
2010-2011 The Inaugural Reuben M. Rainey Endowed Scholar in Landscape Architecture:

Elizabeth Bailey, MLA ‘12

“I am grateful to the School of Architecture for awarding me this scholarship. Their support has ensured my growth as a landscape architect and allowed me opportunities to further my education through participation in design charrettes, international competitions, multi-disciplinary research, as well as afforded me the ability to co-edit lunch 6, the A-school student journal and participate in the Vicenza summer program. Through these varied experiences I have been able to explore a wide range of interests from the influence of design in shaping public space, to the ability of shaping space as a means to promote public health, to cultural landscapes, infrastructure and the intersection between architecture and landscape architecture. I have had the opportunity to have Professor Rainey as a guest critic for the National Parks studio this past spring. In collaboration with a Master of Architecture student, we proposed a memorial for a former Japanese Internment Camp in Southern Idaho. While there were many challenges to designing a memorial, we benefitted greatly from the lectures and readings of Professor Rainey and ultimately designed a landscape and architecture project that successfully evoked dislocation, transition and endurance through collective memory, reflection, education and discussion.”

Over 80 undergraduate and graduate students received scholarships or travel fellowships from private gifts and endowments in FY11.

The Veneto Scholarships for study on Venice and Vicenza International Programs at the School of Architecture:

Chase Sparling-Beckley, MArch ‘11

“I found the Venice program to be unlike anything else I experienced while at UVa. The combination of ecology, culture, kitsch, tourism and historical significance present there is almost unparalleled, presenting students with an incredibly diverse canvas for experimentation.”

2010-2011 Colonial Dames-Armistead Peter III Scholar, to assist students of the Department of Architectural History

Caitlin Gray Graham, MAH ‘12

“The Colonial Dames are invested in the preservation of America’s founding history, and generously made it possible for me to share their joy and their commitment. In 2011, I won first prize in Architecture in the Huskey Graduate Expo and my thesis work will be presented at the prestigious Southeastern Society of Architectural Historians’ annual conference - all because of the scholarship that allowed me to attend the University of Virginia.”

New Fellowships in Design + Build

A new program, Fellowships in Design-Build funded seven fellows (listed on p. 11) to participate in the ecoREMOD2/Falmouth program this summer. The Fellows will also help the school develop a new comprehensive design-build program in the future.

Thank you to the Katz Family Foundation for their support this year.
IMPACT OF PRIVATE SUPPORT: New Endowments and Awards in FY 2011

James Boniface Grad Student Fellowship in Architecture

Endowed with a gift from James Boniface, BArch '70, MArch '72, the Boniface Fellowship will support one or more deserving graduate students in the architecture department at the School of Architecture. Mr. Boniface had given an annual scholarship each year for the last twenty years prior to establishing the endowed fund this year. Mr. Boniface has written: “After satisfying my compulsory military service in 1971, I could not have afforded to return to the University without the financial assistance I received in the form of a teaching assistantship, an NEA Graduate Fellowship, and a student scholarship funded by an Architecture School alumnus. Recognizing the continuing value and need for this type of student scholarship assistance, I established the graduate fellowship to assist deserving students in their mature pursuit of the study of architecture.”

The Galsworthy Scholarship

Endowed with a gift from Marcus Simpson, BSArch '86, the Galsworthy Scholarship will provide funding for undergraduate international students studying at the University of Virginia School of Architecture. This is the first scholarship of its kind at the University. The creation of this scholarship at the Foundation is an important model for future giving at UVA in support of international students and positions the School of Architecture to extend its leadership in developing global citizens. “I was fortunate to have received a general scholarship while attending UVA as an undergrad and it made a tremendous difference. From conversations with UVA grads over the years about ways they have given back to the School and the difference that has made, I was determined to do my part,” says Mr. Simpson, a Foundation Board member.

UPDATE

Sara Shallenberger Brown Cultural Landscapes and Sites Initiatives Endowed Fund (The Brown Initiative)

The Brown Initiative was established last year to advance the School of Architecture’s multidisciplinary research agenda and support teaching related to the study, design and preservation of cultural landscapes and sites. Two inaugural grants were awarded in 2010-11 to the following projects:

1. “The Center for Cultural Landscapes Pilot Projects” - The funding supported two pilot initiatives, “Urban Cultural Landscape Networks in Charlottesville, VA” and “Rural Vernacular Cultural Landscape Networks in Virginia—Morven and Belmead”; the spring 2011 symposium “Keeping Memory Green”; as well as an upcoming fall seminar; and one or two publications. Team: Associate Professor of Landscape Architecture Beth Meyer, Associate Professor of Architectural History Daniel Bluestone, Research Associate Professor Scot French, and Associate Professor of Architecture William Sherman.

2. “ecoREMOD2/Falmouth, 2011-12” - This funding will support a spring 2012 symposium to highlight work at the intersection of historic preservation, cultural landscapes, sustainable design, and social equity. Team: Associate Professor and Chair of Architectural History Louis Nelson, Associate Professor of Architecture John Quale, Professor of Engineering Paxton Marshall, and Distinguished Lecturer in Landscape Architecture Nancy Takahashi.

EXTERNSHIP SUCCESS PROFILE: Colin Curley (BSArch ‘11)

“One of my favorite things about the School of Architecture is the strong sense of community among students, faculty, and alumni. Among the many opportunities I was provided while at UVA, I took advantage of the School’s Externship Program during my 3rd and 4th years. In the fall of my 4th year, my studio critic pointed me in the direction of FXFOWLE in New York where alumni, Guy Geier (BSArch ’76, MArch ’78) and Sylvia Smith (MArch ’79) are both senior partners. In January, FXFOWLE hosted me as an extern for one week. This summer, I returned as a Marketing and Public Relations Intern and now am a full-time designer in the firm’s Urban Studio where I work on a mix of architectural and urban design projects. I am very thankful to the School and my professors and critics for providing me with the education, skills, support and career opportunities that have led me to where I am today.”

For a list of the 2011 extern sponsors, international engagements and other school notes, look in this year’s Colonnade.

FIRM PARTNER PROFILE: Hanbury Evans Wright Vlattas + Co.

Hanbury Evans Wright Vlattas + Company, under the leadership of S. Michael Evans, FAIA (BSArch ’72), continues its long tradition of collaboration with the School of Architecture. Hanbury Evans, based in Norfolk, VA, is an architecture and planning firm specializing in higher education, particularly student life environments. The firm also has a preservation studio.

This year Hanbury Evans reached a milestone in its generosity by surpassing $100,000 in total giving to UVA. In addition to being a consistent Dean’s Forum member at the Professional level, the firm has funded the Hanbury Evans Endowed Lecture for Historic Preservation and student fellowships at the School of Architecture. A distinguishing mark of the firm’s culture is its intentional association with academia, especially the UVA School of Architecture, through their “Legacy” programs. This includes:

>> Virginia Design Medal - this program, in its eighth year, brings a professor of architecture, planning or design-related field to the firm to spend several weeks participating in design discussions, critiquing work and delivering lectures. This year they hosted Daniel Bluestone, Professor of Architectural History and Director of Historic Preservation Program. Five other A-school faculty members have participated since 2004.

>> Summer Scholars - this program, which just concluded its ninth year is a juried competition open to architectural students throughout the world. Up to five students are selected to work side-by-side with firm professionals on existing projects. In the summer of 2010, Daniel Mowery (BSArch ’10, MArch ’12) and Paul Landon (BSArch ’10) were selected. They follow five previous A-school summer scholars.

>> The Hanbury Evans Wright Vlattas Historic Preservation Lecture at UVA - this lecture is to further the appreciation for historical preservation by attracting nationally prominent scholars and practitioners to provide public talks. This spring, Anthony E. Malkin, President of Malkin Properties, gave the keynote lecture on transforming NYC’s Empire State Building into an energy efficient building for the forum “Keeping Memory Green: Preservation, Sustainability, and the Built Environment.”

The firm also has been a consistent employer of UVA architectural graduates. Current alumni members of the firm include: Douglas Campbell (BArch 2004), Jeremy Maloney (BSArch ’04), Joseph Gaber (BSArch ’72), Feng Wang (MArch ’08), and Yang Tian (MAH ’07)

This tradition of support and partnership began with founding principal John Paul C. Hanbury (BArch ’57), who sadly passed away this year. John Paul believed that an architect’s role was not only to create but to protect and advocate, which he demonstrated regularly in his over 30 years of work. His advice to others was, “If you believe that something is important, go lead it. Make a difference in the community.” www.hewv.com

“We feel that engaging on a continuing basis with the School and academic faculty through the Virginia Design Medalist program and endowed lecture enhances the design dialogue in our practice, and encourages creative thinking on our projects and fresh debate among our entire staff.”

- Mike Evans, FAIA (BSArch ’72)
As evidenced in the brief reports below, the work of our faculty bridges the connective, lateral thinking of design and the focused, singular thinking of traditional research. We continue weaving connections between these through six research themes in which we have particular expertise: design and health; adaptive infrastructures; design and community engagement; regenerate; design representation and material practices; and expanding canons.

Architectural History

Daniel Bluestone published Buildings, Landscapes, and Memory: Case Studies in Historic Preservation. He was also named a 2011 Virginia Design Medalist.

Yunsheng Huang completed the revising the text of a book, The East Meets West.

Louis Nelson published his second book of collected essays, Shaping the Body Politic (Virginia, 2011). In addition, he served as the conference chair of the 2011 meeting of the Vernacular Architecture Forum held in Falmouth, Jamaica, continued to serve as the senior co-editor of Buildings and Landscapes, and finalized the last year of his term as department chair.

Lisa Reilly has continued her research on medieval architecture and sailed as academic dean on the spring 2011 voyage of the University’s Semester at Sea program.

Richard Guy Wilson completed a number of articles that were published in the past year, delivered 25 guest talks at various universities, museums and architectural groups, and led the 19th century Architecture Summer School in Newport, RI for the 31st year.

Architecture

Pam Black is a member of Historic Gordonville Inc. and has been asked to be on Town Council, Gordonsville this fall. She also co-taught the Summer Design Institute.

Michael Bednar continues to create abstract steel sculpture, teach Design of Cities, serve on the Board of Directors of Habitat for Humanity and sing in The Oratorio Society of Virginia.

Anselmo Canfora’s “Breathe House” won 1st place in the ARCHIVE Institute “Kay e Sante nan Ayiti” (Housing and Health in Haiti) international design innovation competition and will be built for the community of St. Marc, Haiti later this year. The Charlottesville Business Innovation Council selected Initiative reCOVER as a finalist for the 2011 Spotlight Award.

John Quale’s ecoMOD Project received two national awards (ACSA Creative Achievement, and AIA/ACSA Housing Curriculum).

John Quale and Anselmo Canfora also collaborated on the Commonwealth of Virginia Tobacco Indemnification and Community Revitalization Commission - being awarded a one-year, $2.45M grant to a University of Virginia-led partnership to design, develop and manufacture affordable, energy-efficient housing systems.

Robin Dripps & Lucia Phinney The operative unit has conducted theoretical research on emergent urban infrastructure for a de-populated neighborhood in Baltimore. This work was presented to the city last spring and will be exhibited this September in the center in Baltimore.

Kirk Martini has initiated a new research project on optimization methods for parametric structural models, with articles scheduled for publication in the Journal of Structural Engineering, and the International Journal for Architectural Computing.
Betsy Roettger has used her housing seminar to engage local affordable housing design issues and her studio teaching with the Dew Traveling Studio to work with the Roots of Music, an after-school program in New Orleans.

William Sherman was appointed to the position of Associate Vice President for Research at UVa and the Founding Director of opengrounds, a cross-disciplinary initiative to stimulate innovation through collaborative research partnerships within and beyond the university.

Dean Kim Tanzer, FAIA spoke at the Association of Collegiate Schools of Planning Administrations conference in May, and completed her term as inaugural president of the National Academy of Environmental Design.

Karen Van Lengen taught both in the A-school and also on the spring Semester at Sea voyage. She continues to grow her Library of Sounds project while having completed other competition and built work.

Peter Waldman contributed to his research on urban infrastructure as signal of sustainability on two U21 research efforts: University of Dublin, October 2010, envisioning the James Joyce Study Centre as an on-going Forum on Learning Environments, and at the University of Delhi, collaborating on Urban Stream Restoration.

Landscape Architecture

Beth Meyer led the REGENERATE research group’s Cultural Landscape Networks pilot projects, a digital initiative to strengthen collaborative teaching and research in the School of Architecture. Other REGENERATE collaborators include faculty Julie Bargmann, Craig Barton, Scott French, Louis Nelson, John Quale, Bill Sherman and Jorg Sieweke.

Reuben M. Rainey has been working with Tim Beatley and Nisha Botchwey in the Center for Design and Health on two research efforts: University of Dublin, October 2010, envisioning the James Joyce Study Centre as an on-going Forum on Learning Environments, and at the University of Delhi, collaborating on Urban Stream Restoration.

Jorg Sieweke’s ParadoXcity studio sequence on Delta Cities was awarded in the international ASLA Student Awards collaboration category for the second consecutive year with the Venice studio project: Terra Nova.

Nancy Takahashi became the Chair of the Department of Landscape Architecture in January 2011.

Urban and Environmental Planning

Timothy Beatley published a new book in 2011, Biophilic Cities, and has recently returned from working in Australia as a Fulbright Senior Specialist.

Frank Dukes continued working on the Chesapeake Bay cleanup and on developing sustainable local economies in Southwest Virginia while leading the University & Community Action for Racial Equity (UCARE), a program to understand and address the legacy of slavery, segregation and discrimination involving the university and community.

William Lucy’s book Foreclosing the Dream was published in 2010. Since then, he has been researching Sustainability and Adaptive Infrastructure for his course by that title and potentially for a future book.

Suzanne Morse Moomaw developed the first UVa in Switzerland program in partnership with Virginia Tech for the summer of 2011. She was also asked by the National Civic Review to write the lead piece in their 100-year anniversary edition on the evolution of community development. She is also serving another year as chair of the Piedmont Virginia Community College Board.

David Phillips, Professor of Urban and Environmental Planning for 41 years, retired in May 2010.

Daphne Spain published “Gendered Spaces in 1970’s Boston” this year in Frontiers: A Journal of Women Studies; and gave a presentation on the topic at MIT in November 2010.

Kay Slaughter retired from the Southern Environmental Law Center August 2011 after 24 years as senior attorney, receiving the Chesapeake Bay Foundation’s Conservationist of the Year Award 2011, and publishing “Will Uranium Receive a Glowing Welcome in Virginia?” in the Virginia Environmental Law Journal Summer 2011.
What is the Architecture Annual Fund?

The UVa School of Architecture Foundation Annual Fund consists of all gifts given to the UVa School of Architecture Foundation and School without restriction to its use (an unrestricted gift), to be used within the current fiscal year. The A-school Annual Fund provides unparalleled flexibility to seize educational opportunities when they become available while supporting the School’s operations and most pressing daily needs.

Annual Giving in FY11 (July 1, 2010 to June 30, 2011)

The A-school Annual Fund raised $347,880 in unrestricted gifts from 919 donors. The “What Do YOU See” campaign will continue through 2011-2012, celebrating the A-school’s commitment to teaching our students to see and think about the world differently.

The Dean’s Forum

The Dean’s Forum recognizes alumni, parents, friends and professional partners of the UVa School of Architecture Foundation Annual Fund who have made an exceptional, unrestricted commitment of $1000 or more to provide funding for the School’s top priorities annually. This year’s 136 Dean’s Forum members raised $279,045 in unrestricted giving to the School, representing 80% of the A-school Annual Fund.

http://www.arch.virginia.edu/alumni/deansforum/

Amongst many other initiatives, in 2010-11 the Dean’s Forum supported two travel fellowships, awarded to Abigail Whalen (MArch ’12) and Anna McMillen (BSArch ’14) to participate on the China Architecture + Culture program in affiliation with the Beijing Institute of Asian Studies in China during summer 2011.

Class of 2011 4th Year Gift

The graduating class of 2011 had the highest fourth year class participation in A-school history with an amazing 82% of the class making a gift to support an area of the University closest to them. Most of their gifts, many for $20.11, supported the A-school Annual Fund. The fourth year trustees, Sara Harper and Britney Flood, along with Design Council President Colin Curley, worked with the Foundation to host a Class of 2011 Celebration lunch with Dean Kim Tanzer, who gave career advice and thanked the class for its outstanding support.

Class of 1976 exceeds $50,000 class gift goal in honor of its 35th Reunion

Members of the A-school undergraduate class of 1976 wanted to do something special to honor their 35th Reunion in June, so Nancy Takahashi, David Oakland and Guy Geier challenged their classmates to raise $50,000 in gifts and multi-year pledges to the A-school Annual Fund. By June 30th, 2011 the Class of 1976 had exceeded its Reunion goal with $55,485 in gifts and multi-year pledges that will benefit the School over the next 3-5 years. Nine members of their class are Dean’s Forum members.

Announcing the A-school Young Alumni Council

The brand new A-school Young Alumni Council (AYAC) will have its first meeting in Charlottesville on October 1, 2011. The Council, founded by Patrick Woods (BSArch ’06), Sarah Cox (BSArch ’05) and Kristin Sardina (BSArch ’05), will focus on creating networking, career and social opportunities for young alumni (10 years out from graduation), as well as improving fundraising participation and communications to this diverse community. The Council will continue to evolve and expand in the coming years with a regional presence in Washington DC/NoVa, New York City, the Bay Area, Boston, Charlottesville and the Midwest. Stay tuned for events and opportunities in your area.

In FY11, 104 young alumni from the A-school (undergraduate and graduate classes 2000-2010) raised over $15,700 in gifts and pledges to the A-school Annual Fund
ALUMNI CONNECTIONS

This past academic year, the UVa School of Architecture Foundation, along with alumni, friends, parents, faculty members, the Dean's office, the Dean's Advisory Board and the A-school regional committees, hosted 18+ engagement and alumni events across the country and in Charlottesville, connecting over 1000 alumni and friends. The 2010 Dean’s Forum Celebration was held at the newly restored Jefferson Theater on Charlottesville’s Downtown Mall, with a historic walking tour of the mall led by Associate Professor of Landscape Architecture Beth Meyer (BLA ’78).

In June, the A-school welcomed back over 110 alumni and family from the undergraduate classes of 1966, 1971, 1976, 1981, 1986, 1991, 1996, 2001 and 2006 with a cocktail reception and picnic lunch at Campbell Hall. This year, the Foundation hosted the first ever A-school Graduate Reunions Weekend celebrating the classes of 1985, 1986 and 1987. With the help of Grad Reunions Co-Chairs, Bill Skelsey (MArch ’86), Sandra Vicchio (MArch ’87) and George and Anne Penniman (MArch + MLA ’86), the inaugural reunion was a great success with over 40 graduate alumni and their families returning to grounds for a special tour of Campbell Hall, an insider’s tour of Monticello and a Graduate Reunions dinner at The Local.

Save the Date for these upcoming alumni events in your area. If you do not receive an email invite and would like to, please update your contact information with Kim Wong at kimwong@virginia.edu. All dates are subject to change; more details to come.

Members have documented a bequest or planned gift to the School of Architecture

“Making a planned gift, as a bequest, is a way to give back to the University and allows me to support the School of Architecture in a more meaningful way than would be possible with a gift today.”

Leslie Klein (BSArch ’82)

WAYS TO GIVE

Annual Fund + Unrestricted Giving
Annual Giving for Daily Impact. The UVa School of Architecture Foundation Annual Fund is the backbone of institutional support. Every unrestricted donation, no matter what the size, significantly helps to support the areas of greatest need at the School. Annual Fund gifts have been applied to top priorities such as:

- student scholarships
- faculty research
- travel fellowships
- new technology
- innovative curriculum and studios
- lectures
- alumni events

Endowment + Restricted Giving
Restricted gifts are donations that are designated to a specific area of the UVa School of Architecture including faculty projects, student fellowships and named lectures. We encourage donors to consider establishing a named endowment to ensure generations of future support to the School and Foundation.

Planned Giving
A planned gift includes a bequest, charitable annuity, and gift of real estate. It is one of several types of gifts that permit you to provide future benefit to the School while meeting your current financial, personal and philanthropic goals. To learn more about how to make a planned gift to the School, contact the Office of Planned Giving at 434-924-7306 / giftplanning@virginia.edu
