UVA School of Architecture Fellowships
Blair Phillips Memorial Award

About the Blair Phillips Memorial Award
This scholarship was established to honor Blair Phillips (B.S. Arch’11), his life and accomplishments, and to support future awards to students at the University of Virginia. The awardee(s) will be selected for their embodiment of those traits most admired in Blair –

- Positive attitude and natural ability to draw people together
- Quietly contributing and adding value to academic and social culture through unobserved ways
- High levels of creativity, motivation, and enthusiasm applied to diverse interests
- Serves behind the scenes to support the efforts of others
- Dedication to work balanced with an eagerness to play
- Ability to bridge disciplines and connect people who strive to create a better environment
- Compelling design work of complete originality
- Active interest in assisting peers with design questions and challenges
- Caring concern for family, friends and colleagues as demonstrated through action and words

The Funds awarded may be used for opportunities and experiences that will broaden the repertoire and personal development of the undergraduate recipient. As funds desired to enrich an undergraduate student’s experience, nominees must be returning to the A-School for the 2018-2019 academic year as a rising 4th year pursuing a B.S. in Architecture and the awardee(s) will serve on the award selection committee for the 2019 recipient(s).

Please complete and submit the form below by 5:00 pm on February 19, 2018, via email to the Office of Admissions and Financial Aid (a-school-admissions@virginia.edu) or by submitting a physical copy to the Office of Admissions and Financial Aid, 225 Campbell Hall.
